2012 IEEE-USA Consultants Fee Survey Report: Released!

In the spring of 2012, IEEE-USA conducted its annual survey focusing on the compensation of independent engineering consultants. Results from that survey are now published in the highly anticipated annual E-Book: IEEE-USA Consultants Fee Survey Report. The findings in this 2012 edition show median hourly rate charged by consultants have increased from 2011. The report also provides insight into what business sectors are hiring consultants. To get the full story, purchase this exciting publication today at the IEEE-USA website. The report represents only those who were identified as self-employed consultants; defined as the 1,275 individuals who indicated that 50% or more of their consulting hours came from working independently, with partners, or incorporated (from herein referred to as consultants).

Contract Engineering Jobs

“Career contractors.” That’s what Joseph Salvucci, owner and CEO of Peak Technical Staffing USA, calls many of the engineers who find work through his firm. These highly trained professionals aren’t looking for full-time jobs that will last them 20 or 30 years. Instead, they’re looking for contract work: short-term jobs — anywhere from a few months to a couple of years — that pay well, offer certain degrees of flexibility and give them a chance to practice their craft at a very high technical level.

“These career contractors move from one very interesting and amazing job to another interesting and amazing job,” Salvucci says. “It’s always a situation where things need to get done and they need to get done now.” In the process, contract engineers can often be earning a premium of 10 to 15 percent above the market rate for permanent employees...
